4.1.3.Groups/studios

Groups are groups of trainers created on the basis of some organisational criteria such as a common location, a common sport or anything else. Groups can help tap on the synergies hidden in the connections, and in this way the athletes can try themselves in different sport disciplines or with different trainers, and the trainers can effectively fill their vacancies from the athletes of the trainers belonging to the same group.

Data processing table with regard to groups:

Role in the Group	What can he/she see?	Authorisations
1. Group administrator	can see all classes of all the trainers	can set up everything within the group manages the rights, and can issue rights can issue admin and manager rights can remove/enter trainers
2. Manager invited to the Group	can see all classes of all the trainers	cannot remove the admin cannot give admin or manager rights to others cannot take away admin or manager rights any new trainer invited by this manager can only get trainer or staff rights otherwise he/she has the same rights as an admin
3. Trainer invited to the Group	can see his/her own classes	cannot modify group set-ups can modify his/her own classes with the group can add his/her own classes within the group can erase his/her own classes with the group
4. Staff invited to the Group	can see his/her own classes	cannot modify his/her class within the group cannot cancel his/her own class within the group

Maintenance of cookies

It is possible for you to maintain and/or discretionally erase the cookies. See more information about this on website aboutcookies.org. You can erase all the cookies stored on your computer, and you can prohibit their installation in most of the browser programs. In such cases, however it may happen that when you visit a site, you will have to make the set-ups manually every time, and you will have to understand that in such cases certain services and functions may not work.

4.6. Further useful information

4.6.1.Some of your data – as you can also see in the table – can be seen by other users (those you have given a right to view) (the addressees). This however will not be deemed as data forwarding or data storing. Any other users can only see your data, but apart from viewing it, they cannot do any data processing on it, therefore you are not allowed either to carry out any data processing activities on the data of others apart from viewing (except if the other person has provided his/her expressed consent to this, but this is based on the personal relationship between the two of you regardless of Spomoco). In line with this, it is prohibited to save, use, gather, etc. any personal data from the Spomoco application.

4.6.2.By providing your mandatory data and ticking off a box (I accept the data processing information and the general contract terms and conditions) you are giving your consent to providing viewing access to such data for other users in line with your so called viewing set-ups, and to allowing Spomoco to manage your data for the purpose and duration specified in the above table.

4.6.3.By providing your non-mandatory data, you are giving your consent to providing viewing access to such data for other users in line with your so called viewing set-ups and to allowing Spomoco to manage your data for the purpose and duration specified in the above table. It is not necessary to mark the box here, you only have to do that upon registration, while you can provide such data following your registration. Of course, the password of your Spomoco account cannot be seen by any other users.

4.6.4.The Spomoco application does not ask you for any special personal data. If anybody asked you for such data on behalf of Spomoco, please report to us.

4.6.5.Data Controller does not forward data either within the EEC or to any third country (countries outside the EEC).

4.6.6.Spomoco does not do profiling.

4.6.7.Spomoco shall be responsible for keeping your data up to date and correct therefore please put through all changes in your data immediately also in your Spomoco account.

4.6.8.We will send you notification about your following actions concerning data protection issues in our application:

- connection to a trainer or athlete (information when you make some of your data viewable for the other party)
- connection to a group (information when during the connection you make some of your data viewable for the trainers in the group and the athletes connected to the trainer in the group)

5. Registration and entry with Facebook

You can register and enter in the application also with your Facebook profile. In such a case we only import your email address, name and public profile image from your Facebook profile, and we only do this upon registration. You can change your name and profile image within the application at any time (you can even erase your profile image), and when you enter for the next time, you will already see your modified data. Spomoco does not send any data from the application to Facebook.

6. Stakeholder rights

- right of access (getting acquainted with the data, the fact whether there is data processing);
- correction of data if it is obsolete or incorrect;
- erasure (only in case of consent based data processing);
- restrict the processing of data;
- prohibit the use of personal data for direct marketing purposes;
- transfer of stakeholder's personal data to a third party service provider, or its prohibition;
- request for a duplicate copy of any personal data managed by Data Controller; or protest against the use of personal data: in case of a direct marketing purpose, or a legal basis in line with GDPR, Article 6. (1)e) (data processing necessary for a task carried out in the public interest) and f) (data processing in a legitimate interest). Stakeholders may also exercise their protesting rights through automatic tools based on technical specifications by way of unsubscribing from the newsletter.

- right to data portability: Any Stakeholder has the right to receiving his/her personal data relating to him/her, and having been provided by him/her to a data controller in a format properly structured, broadly used, and computer readable, and also has the right to forwarding such data to any other data controller without being hindered by the data controller to whom the Stakeholder has provided the data.

- right to withdrawing consent

Complaints about data processing: if a Stakeholder has any requests or questions in connection with data processing, he/she should send a request by postal mail to data controller's head office or by email to the above email address. We will send our answers without delay but not later than within 30 days to the address requested by you.

If Data Controller violates the personal rights of a Stakeholder by their illegal processing of Stakeholder's data or by violating the requirements of data security, the Stakeholder may demand a violation penalty charge from Data Controller.

7. Data security

Data Controller shall ensure the security of the data. For this purpose, Data Controller shall carry out the necessary technical and organisational measures, and create rules of procedure which will be guiding and necessary for the enforcement of data and confidential data protection rules.

Data Controller shall protect the data with appropriate measures from illegal access, change, forwarding, disclosure, erasure or destruction, as well as inadvertent destruction or damage, and inaccessibility due to some change in the technology applied.

Data Controller shall ensure the enforcement of data security rules (also) by way of internal rules, instructions and rules of operation substantially and formally separate from the Rules of Data Protection and Data Security, and the current Information.

When defining and applying data security measures, Data Controller shall take into consideration the prevailing technological development, and shall choose the one data management solution form the different options which provides the higher level protection for personal data, except if this would entail disproportionate difficulties.

Data Controller, in the sphere of his/her IT protection tasks shall ensure in particular the following:

- security measures against illegal access including the protection of software and hardware tools, and physical protection (access protection, network safety);
- measures providing data file recovery options including regular safety back-ups and the separated and safe management of duplicate copies (mirroring, mirroring of safe processing, safety back-ups);
- anti-virus protection for data files (anti-virus protection);
- physical protection of data files and their media including protection against damage caused by fire, water, lightning and other elementary damage, as well as recovery after damage caused by such events (archiving, fire safety).
